NATO: Secretary-General Brosio has called for an informal meeting of the senior Allied representatives on 24 March to begin discussion of the implications for the Alliance of certain aspects of President Nixon's recent report on US foreign policy. Brosio had earlier reported to the US representative that he regards the report as a signal to him personally and to the Europeans in general to start seriously thinking about the future of the Alliance. Brosio's initiative reportedly has been warmly received and is thought to indicate the keen interest at NATO in assessing the impact of the report on western European defense strategy.
